How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels. W. J. McELROY, Macon, Ga.

CARESSES TO BE AVOIDED.

A Visitor to the Lion Learns Some Things He Did Not Know Before.

"Yes, he's a friendly old chap," said the lion keeper. "He was born in captivity at Barnum's headquarters in Bridgeport, Conn., and he'll let even a stranger scratch him behind the ears."

The stranger tried the experiment cautiously, and the lion seemed pleased.

"Now, he'll lick your hand for thanks, if you like," added the keeper. "Don't be afraid; his teeth are nearly all gone, anyway."

The stranger put his hand through the bars again, and at the keeper's word of command the well trained lion gave it a gentle lick with his tongue.

"Wow! Great Scott!" exclaimed the owner of the hand, as he jerked it out and looked at it ruefully. If a piece of sandpaper had been applied to it vigorously it would have looked and felt about the same. "Lost his teeth, did you say? His tongue is covered with them."

"Well," said the keeper, with a good natured grin at the success of his practical joke, "you're just about right. A lion's tongue is covered with strong horny little hooks—papillæ is the scientific name for them—and they all point backward. When he licks hard he can scrape the meat and cartilage off the bones of a tough horse quicker than you could with a sharp knife."

"I suppose you have to feed a lion as old as this one on what the others would regard as dainties?" said the visitor.

"No," answered the keeper, "as a general thing a lion won't eat at all or he'll eat anything in the fresh meat line. The whole cat tribe has a low sense of taste. You have often seen a cat lick herself, haven't you? She gets handfuls of hair in her mouth without minding it at all. Consider what discomfort one hair produces in the mouth of a human being whose sense of taste is delicate."

"This old fellow's claws are pretty well worn down," said the visitor. "I suppose by constant use on the floor and walls of his cage."

"He has one claw not worn down at all," answered the keeper, "but I'll bet you can't detect it."

The visitor looked at all the paws and could see nothing but well worn claws. "Where is it?" he asked.

"At the end of the tail," said the keeper.

"Oh, now," remarked the visitor; "no more jokes on me today, thank you."

The keeper put his hand between the bars, caught the patient ex-monarch of the forest by the tail and showed the visitor a sort of horny hook concealed among the long hairs at the end of it. "What use it serves there," he added, "naturalists don't know, I believe. Some say he uses it to lash himself into a rage. Next time you look at any books on Nineveh, notice how the old Assyrians exaggerated this hook on the tails of lions carved upon their funny old marbles."—New York Tribune.

Curing an Otter Skin.

A full grown sea otter is from four to five feet long and perhaps a foot or more wide. When a hunter secures one he loosens the hide from the nose and head and, without cutting it lengthwise at all, he pulls the skin down over the body, the hide being so elastic that this is not a difficult job. It is then stretched over a smooth board 6½ feet long, 9 inches wide at one end and 10 at the other end. Each end of this board is tapered to a point. Another board exactly the same size is then inserted, and the skin is stretched a foot or eighteen inches longer than its original length.

A third board, half the length of the other, is wedged in and the skin lightly tacked at the ends to hold it in place. If any flesh adheres to the skin it is then cut off, and the hide is cured and dried in this condition. In a few days it is taken off of the boards and turned fur side out, when it is ready for market.—Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

A High Tunnel.

A remarkable piece of engineering work is the tunnel of the Parana Oroya railroad through an Andean mountain peak at Galera, Peru. It is at an elevation of 600 feet above the perpetual snow line, and is 3,847 feet long. It is the highest railroad tunnel in the world, and is located in the highest inhabited region in the world. The town of Galera is 15,635 feet above the sea level, nearly 1,500 feet higher than the hotel on the top of Pike's peak.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Why Negroes Can Bear Heat.

The function of a negro's black skin is supposed to be the conversion of the sun's light into heat. The heat thus generated remains in the skin and does not penetrate to the deeper tissues. Being thus provided with a sun proof armor, the negro can stand an amount of heat that would be fatal to a white man and run little or no risk of sunstroke.—St. Louis Republic.

The Difference.

There are barbers in India whose touch is so light that they can shave you while asleep. There are men in this country who can skin you before you find it out, while you are wide awake.—Ram's Horn.

THE DRAWBRIDGE KEEPER.

Drecker, the drawbridge keeper, opened wide
The dangerous gate, to let the vessel through;
His little son was standing by his side
Above Passaic river, deep and blue,
While in the distance, like a moan of pain,
Was heard the whistle of the coming train.

At once brave Drecker worked to swing it back—
The gatelike bridge that seems a gate of death;
Nearer and nearer, on the slender track,
Came the swift engine, puffing its white breath.
Then, with a shriek, the loving father saw
His darling boy fall headlong from the draw.

Either at once down in the stream to spring
And save his son, and let the living freight
Rush on to death, or to his work to cling
And leave his boy unhelped to meet his fate;
Which should he do? Were you, as he was, tried,
Would not your love outweigh all else beside?

And yet the child to him was full as dear
As yours may be to you—the light of eyes,
A presence like a brighter atmosphere,
The household star that shone in love's mild skies—
Yet side by side with duty, stern and grim,
Even his child became as naught to him.

For Drecker, being great of soul and true,
Held to his work, and did not aid his boy,
Who in the deep, dark waters sank from view.
Then from his father's life went forth all joy;
But as he fell back, pallid with his pain,
Across the bridge in safety passed the train.

And yet the man was poor, and in his breast
Flowed no ancestral blood of king or lord;
True greatness needs no title and no crest
To win from men just honor and reward;
Nobility is not of rank, but mind;
And is inborn and common in our kind

He is most noble whose humanity
Is least corrupted. To be just and good
The birthright of the lowest born may be;
Say what we can, we are one brotherhood,
And rich or poor, or famous or unknown,
True hearts are noble, true hearts alone.

—Henry Abby.

Men with Several Offices.

A good many business men of this city have two, three and some four different offices. Sometimes these are four or five miles apart. There are well known lawyers here who have two offices and handle a wholly different class of business at each. Interested in big corporations, a live business man often necessarily has office hours at the corporation offices of the respective concerns. This not only enables him to discharge his mind of all other branches of his business while attending to one, but it enables those who have business with him to transact it without interfering with those who are bent on something else.

The mental [illegible] put upon an active business man soon sends him to Florida or some more permanent resting place, so that it is doubtful if anything is gained by doubling up in this way. The matter is interesting, however, as illustrating the peculiar qualities of brain power and training.—New York Herald.

The Origin of Humbug.

Edward Nathaniel Lewer, who was all his life connected with the London Stock exchange, and died on May 7, 1876, aged eighty, once said in all seriousness that during the Napoleonic wars so much false news of politics and army movements came through Hamburg that anything that smacked of the incredible was received with the derisive phrase, "That's Hamburg," whence is derived by corruption the word "humbug." If the word does not date back beyond the period referred to, it seems a more reasonable derivation than the very labored one we get in Webster's Dictionary.—Notes and Queries.

Jerked Beef.

A remarkable instance of the tendency to change and even mutilate a word in order to give it a familiar and suggestive appearance is found in the expression "jerked beef," which is a ready English substitute for "charqui," the Peruvian word for meat cooked in smoke, or "jerked." Such a liberty taken with a foreign word may readily be pardoned when so happy in result, but the necessity for changing "lustrine," a French word for silk, into "lutestring" may be questioned, seeing we have many words, such as "luster" and "lustrous," from the same root. But there is no accounting for fancies.—Chambers' Journal.

When Nails Came High.

An ancient Eastport account book shows that tobacco was sold by the yard in that ancient settlement in 1797. A somewhat extreme illustration of the limited purchasing power of a day's wages at that time is shown in the price of nails which were then made by hand (cut nails not having been invented), and sold at 1s. 2½d. (twenty cents) per pound; an ordinary days wages would pay for four or five pounds.—Lewiston Journal.

A Place for a Bigger Man.

Rev. Dr. Boyd tells a delightful story against himself in his reminiscences. It is of the senior wrangler, who, when the parson told him of his intention to leave Edinburgh for the highly desirable incumbency of St. Andrew's, naively said: "Bless me! are you going there? Why, that's a place for one of the first men in the church!"

A Horrifying Discovery.

Mamma—Horrors! What does she do?

HOME AT LAST.

She Had Looked Forward to Her Visit for Fifty Years.

She was an odd looking little old woman in a skimpy and faded black alpaca dress and a big, old fashioned black straw bonnet with some limp black feathers and faded ribbon on it. But her small and deeply wrinkled old face had a kindly look and her blue eyes were as bright and twinkling as the eyes of a child.

She talked to every person near her on the train and the burden of it all was that she was "going back home."

"Jist think of it," she said in her cracked, childish voice; "it'll be fifty years next May, the 10th day, sence I left my old home in New Hampshire, an I ain't never been back sence, an here when I went away I reckoned sure I'd git back once in four or five years, anyhow, but I ain't never went until now, and it'll be fifty years the 10th day of next May. I was married on the 9th an me an Aaron, he's my husband, started for the west the very next day.

"Aaron said I should come home in two years, but our first baby was born about that time an I couldn't come then, an somehow or other there wan't no time after that when I could come. But I ain't blamin Aaron. He'd been willin fer me to come if I could of got off. Aaron, he's been back twice. It was easier fer him to git away than fer me.

"I'll find changes? La me! yes. There's skasly any one left that I know, but I've got an own sister an a brother who'll be glad to see me. An the old house I was born in is still standin. I know jist how it looks. Some things'll be jist as natchrel. There don't nobody know how glad I'll be to git back home. I'll be home in the mornin. Here you, Mr. Porter, mind that you git me up airly. But, la me! I ain't likely to oversleep so nigh home."

But she was not awake in the morning when all the other passengers were up and dressed. The porter called her, but there was no response, and one of the ladies in the car parted the curtains of the old lady's berth and stepped back with a frightened look, saying in a [illegible]

She had gone home in the night.—Detroit Free Press.

Danger in Smoking Rooms.

Remaining in closed rooms in which smoke is sometimes so thick that one cannot see is particularly to be avoided by people who are subject to weakness of the heart, even if they do not smoke. Dr. Vallin has recited before the Society of Medicine three conclusive facts in this respect. One told of a young officer who had given up the use of tobacco three months before, and who was overcome with a suffocation similar to angina after having passed two or three nights in his room where his friends had been in the habit of coming to smoke.

The case recalls an epidemic of the same disease observed by Dr. Gelineau among some sailors who were crowded in the hold of a tramp steamer. They were obliged during a storm to cover the hatchways and smoked to excess in order to have something to do. Even those who themselves did not smoke were stricken like the others, for they had inhaled the same poisonous air and subjected themselves to the action of nicotine upon the lungs.—Jules Rochard in Revue des Deux Mondes.

Sticky Onion Juice.

A very convenient mucilage can be made out of onion juice by any one who wishes to use it. A good sized Spanish onion, after being boiled a short time, will yield on being pressed quite a large quantity of very adhesive fluid. This is used quite extensively in various trades for pasting paper onto tin or zinc, or even glass, and the tenacity with which it holds would surprise any one on making the first attempt. It is the cheapest and best mucilage for such purposes, and answers just as well as many of the more costly and patent cements. Some of the cements sold by street fakirs at ten cents a bottle consist of nothing but onion juice and water, and the bottle and cork cost a great deal more than the contents.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Found All Over.

A good illustration of the amount of change brought about by deep sea investigations in our ideas of the distribution of the fishes is to be seen in the history of the discoboli. It is now shown that the discoboles, disk-bearers, lumpfishes, sucking fishes or sea snails, as they are variously called, are no longer restricted to the Atlantic and Pacific in their northern parts and to the Arctic ocean.—New York Times.

The End of Human Life.

An interesting calculation is made by a French geologist to the effect that, taking into consideration the wear and tear on the solid land by ocean washing, rivers, wind and weather, and leaving out of the calculation volcanic action, the world will in 4,500,000 years be completely under water and no dry land exist at all.—New York Journal.

Overdoing It.

He (fishing for loving protestations)—My angel, I do not believe I am worthy to be your husband.

She (thoughtfully)—That's just what my mother says.—New York Weekly.

GLEN ELLEN.

The Mervyn and Glen Ellen Hotels are crowded with guests.

R. A. Poppe of Sonoma was up last Tuesday on legal business.

J. N. Harper of San Francisco is visiting his family in this place and intends making a stay of several weeks.

Dr. C. C. O'Donnell was up one day last week to make arrangements for the construction of several cottages on his place.

E. W. Davis of Santa Rosa passed through town last Monday en route to the Republican ratification meeting at Sonoma which was held there on that day.

Quite a number of Glen Ellen people were summoned as witnesses in the Berryman larceny case, which was tried at Santa Rosa last Tuesday.

One of the most enjoyable socials ever held here took place last Saturday evening at the Native Son's hall. It was held under the auspices of the Ladies of Glen Ellen Grange. The proceeds will be used to purchase an organ which the Grange is greatly in need of. The music was first-class and was furnished by Uncle Joe Zane and Prof. H. Scheick, and such tunes as the "Rat Catcher's Daughter," "Rosin the Bow," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," etc., received a good overhauling. Landerbach, as rendered by our Teutonic friend, Mr. Scheick, was without a fault. Mrs. B. D. Alexander of South Los Guilicos presided at the organ and rendered some excellent music. The ice cream and lemonade stands were well patronized by all. The affair was financially and socially a success, and the organ will undoubtedly be on hand in short order. To give the names of all in attendance would require to much space, but every body within a radius of several miles was in attendance.

REMINGTON.

Glen Ellen, June 16th, 1892.

Encouraging Words.

That excellent paper, the Sonoma INDEX-TRIBUNE, now appears in a handsome new dress, which improves its appearance. We do not believe there is a town of its size anywhere that has a better paper than Sonoma and evidences of its prosperity are always noticed with pleasure by the Republican.—Santa Rosa Republican.

The Sonoma INDEX-TRIBUNE comes to us this week in a new dress of type and printed on better paper. Brother Granice's paper fills a good newspaper field and the prosperous people of his community can make no better investment than to encourage and show their appreciation of every improvement made in an already excellent journal.—Petaluma Imprint.

ARMY AND NAVY SUPPLIES.

The Government Buying Royal Baking Powder.

New York Tribune.

Large purchases of baking powder have recently been made by the United States Government. In one lot 80,000 lbs. were bought of the Royal Baking Powder Company.

During the last year, including the March contract just made, the Royal Baking Powder Company has supplied over 212,000 pounds, or 106 tons of baking powder for the United States Government and its Army and Navy officers.

For many years the Government has given its orders for Royal Baking Powder in preference to all others, it being found that this is the only Baking Powder that will keep and retain its strength in the various climates to which it is sent by the Department.

The Royal was found to be superior to all others in leavening power by the official chemical tests, made at the instance of the Government, in the Agricultural Department, at Washington.

Dortmund vs. Young.

The foreclosure case of Dortmund vs. Young came to its final settlement last Tuesday.

Henry Dortmund of Petaluma brought a foreclosure suit on property owned by Marie E. Young at this place. Judgment was rendered in Dortmund's favor and at the foreclosure sale he bought in the property for $4,756.

In the meantime, Marie E. Young was declared mentally incompetent and C. C. Farmer of Santa Rosa was appointed guardian. The right of redemption of the property was sold by guardian to W. S. Miller for $4,000. Yesterday Mr. Miller bought Mr. Dortmund's right in certificate of sale, paying therefor $5000, thus satisfying all claims and closing the case.

Board of Supervisors.

MONDAY, JUNE 6th.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Across the Deep, to the Far West.

On steamboats, cars and stage coaches, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is carried as the most important item in the materia medica of the traveling public. It deprives vitiated, brackish water of its hurtful properties and execrable flavor, counteracts the pernicious effects upon the stomach of bad or indigestible food, recedies cramps, heartburn and wind upon the stomach. It is a fine defense against malarial disorders, nullifies the effects of excessive heat, cold and damp, relieves sick-headaches, and is an incomparable cure for costiveness and biliousness. The fatigue of travel often tells most disastrously upon invalids and convalescents occasionally to such an extent as to jeopardize life. Persons in feeble health, apprehensive of bad effects from travel, will, if provided with the Bitters, be far less likely to have their fears realized.

Deserving Praise.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling D. King's New Discovery for consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. E. Wagner's Drug Store.

THE FACT

That AYER'S Sarsaparilla CURES OTHERS of Scrofulous Diseases, Eruptions, Boils, Eczema, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, and Catarrh should be convincing that the same course of treatment WILL CURE YOU. All that has been said of the wonderful cures effected by the use of

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

during the past 50 years, truthfully applies to-day. It is, in every sense, The Superior Medicine. Its curative properties, strength, effect, and flavor are always the same; and for whatever blood diseases AYER'S Sarsaparilla is taken, they yield to this treatment. When you ask for don't be induced to purchase any of the worthless substitutes, which are mostly mixtures of the cheapest ingredients, contain no sarsaparilla, have no uniform standard of appearance, flavor, or effect, are blood-purifiers in name only, and are offered to you because there is more profit in selling them. The old-time simple remedy from the Georgia swamps and fields has gone forth to the antipodes, astonishing the skeptical and confounding the theories of those who depend solely on the physician's skill. Ratification Meeting.

The Republicans of Sonoma Township turned out last Monday evening to ratify the nominations of Benjamin Harrison and Whitelaw Reid for President and Vice-President of the United States.

The meeting was held in Union Hall, and was called to order by D. D. Davisson, Republican County Committeeman, after which J. M. Cheney was chosen President and B. F. Campbell as Secretary.

President Cheney, after a few preliminary remarks introduced the Hon. E. W. Davis of Santa Rosa, who entertained the audience for an hour with a good, sensible speech which enthused the Republicans and was not in the least distasteful to those Democrats who "just dropped in to hear what the other side had to say."

The speaker was frequently interrupted with applause from the Republicans, a majority of whom favored Blaine's nomination, but who, appeared to have cast all differences aside, and to use the expression of a participant, were not considering the fight as between Harrison and Blaine but between "Harrison and the other fellow."

The Sonoma Brass Band of fifteen pieces also entertained the audience with some excellent music, which was interspersed with the booming of anvils and the blaze of bonfires on the outside.

The evening's jollification wound up with a social dance.

The Leroy Manuel Case.

The examination of young Leroy Manuel, charged with complicity in setting fire to an old building belonging to the Donahue Railway Company in this place nearly two years ago, will take place before Judge Brown of Santa Rosa on the 5th of July, the old indictment against accused having been dismissed last week. The principal evidence against the accused is the confession of Geo. Foutts, who is now serving out a term of five years, he having been convicted on his own evidence as having a hand in the attempt to burn the building. Young Manuel is now out on $2,500 bail and is employed in his father's basalt block quarries at Melitta near Santa Rosa. It is said of him that for the past year he has been a steady, sober and industrious young man.

A gentleman, under forty years of age, whose hair was rapidly becoming thin and gray, began to use Ayer's Hair Vigor, and in six months his hair was restored to its natural color, and even more than its former growth and richness.

THE CITY DADS.

A Special Meeting—Resignation of Trustee Bulotti.

Wm. Trudgen Chosen to Fill the Vacancy.

The City Trustees held a special meeting last Saturday evening to take definite action in regard to constructing a new road leading to Mountain Cemetery. Trustee Litzius reported that Mr. Aguillon had refused the right of way for the proposed road over his lands. He also stated that a good road with an easy grade could be constructed without trespassing on the lands of Aguillon, and exhibited a diagram of the proposed road.

On motion of Trustee Seipp the Board decided to employ E.K. Stevenot to survey and stake out the proposed road and to furnish an estimate of the cost of building the same.

The resignation of Trustee Bulotti was received and accepted and on motion of Trustee Seipp the place made vacant by the resignation was given to Wm. Trudgen by a unanimous vote.

The sprinkling of the streets and other matters of importance were discussed in an informal way, and laid over until the next regular meeting, after which the Board stood adjourned.

DEATH OF LOUIS FILIPPINI.

A Singular Disease that Baffled the Skill of Physicians.

Louis Filippini, a brother of Chas. Filippini of this place, died in San Francisco on the 10th inst., after a short illness. The deceased was a well-known and wealthy dairyman of Marin county. A few weeks ago the deceased, who was a very stout man, complained of feeling unwell, but kept up and around, until one day about ten days before his death. On that day he fainted and had to be carried home and put to bed. He continued to grow weaker and a few days afterwards the little finger of his left hand became cold and then turned black. The next day another finger became similarly affected and so on until the whole hand became dead. Then the disease—blood poisoning—spread to his wrist and arm. At the commencement of the disease Charley Philippini of this place had procured the services of one of the best physicians in Petaluma, but his skill was baffled. It was then decided to remove the sick man to St. Mary's Hospital, San Francisco. Upon arriving there the services of some of the most eminent physicians of that city were engaged, the celebrated surgeon Dr. Lane being one of them. After trying everything known to medical science to arrest the progress of the disease, it was decided to amputate the arm above the elbow, as a last resort. Mr. Filippini stood the ordeal manfully, but immediately after the operation lapsed into a state of unconsciousness and passed peacefully away shortly after. The deceased was one of the best liked and most popular men in Marin county. He was 46 years of age and a native of Switzerland. His funeral took place in Petaluma last Sunday and was the largest ever held in that city.

"A Gone Coon."

For several months past a thieving coon has made midnight raids on the chicken coops of Ed. Gise, Granville Harris and other residents on Broadway. During his nightly visits covering the above period the sly animal purloined about three or four dozen hens. Of these Harris lost two dozen. On Friday night of last week this coon with a penchant for Broadway chickens came to an untimely end. He was caught right in the very act of getting away with one of Gise's chickens by a party of young men who were laying for the depredator. A shot gun in the hands of Gus Weyl is what did the business. The animal weighed twelve pounds.

What to Wear---A Question Answered by Our Society Reporter.

A correspondent asks what one must wear to be in full evening dress. In reply we will say that for gentlemen all that is required is a claw-hammer or a three-button cut-away or a Prince Albert. The former, of course, is the regulation style, but in California either of the others will answer. A plain white shirt and white necktie are the proper things, and don't forget your pants. They must be dark in color and if they be baggy it is all the better. For ladies a full dress for an evening party means that the dress should be light and airy and rather fanciful. Richly trimmed silks are only appropriate to those who do not take part in the dance.

THE MINKEL M'INTYRE WEDDING.

The marriage of Miss Ella F. McIntyre, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McIntyre, to W. J. Minkle took place last Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents on Napa street. The decorations were very tasteful, and adorned every room. In the large parlor was hung a beautiful marriage bell composed of white lilies, jasmine and ferns. Bouquets and jars of lovely flowers rested upon tables and stands. Promptly at 11 A. M. the bride and groom entered the parlor and took positions under the wedding bell and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. King of the M. E. Church, in the presence of the relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride wore a lovely gown of cream Nuns veiling trimmed with chiffon lace. In her hand she carried a beautiful bouquet of pink roses. Two bridesmaids attended the bride, Miss Dollie Patterson and Miss Emma Meguire, and Messrs. Louis and Bert Fischbeck acted as best men. After the ceremony a splendid wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Minkel took the afternoon train for San Francisco where Mrs. Nordwell, a sister of the groom, tendered the happy couple a reception on Friday at her beautiful new home on Taylor street. Mr. and Mrs. Minkel will reside upon their return on the Nordwell place, of which Mr. Minkel is manager. Many valuable wedding presents were received. The Fourth of July in Sonoma.

The Native Sons of this place will give a picnic at Maxwell's Grove on the Fourth of July. The affair will wind up with a grand ball in the evening at Union Hall. The Native Son's never do things by halves and in addition to other features to be introduced on that day the Sonoma Valley Band of fifteen pieces has been engaged at an expense of $90 to play on the picnic grounds and to furnish the music for the ball.

Nights of Enchantment.

This entertainment appears at Union Hall on Monday night. The Lewis Bros. are remembered by many of our citizens as appearing in our city some 18 years ago. The following is clipped from the Santa Cruz Times: To-night closes a series of the most delightful entertainments we have had at the Opera-house this season, and the large audiences that have assembled illustrates the fact that our citizens are patrons of legitimate and refined amusements, as three nights of the engagement "Standing room only" was placarded at the box office, and undoubtedly there will be another overflowing house to-night.

The professors engagement has been a financial success which can be attributed to the first-class performances and the judicious use of printers ink as no entertainment in years visiting our city has been better advertised.

OUR CHURCHES.

Interesting Services Last Sunday

ST. FRANCIS' CHURCH.

At St. Francis' Church on last Sunday morning 13 boys and little girls received their first Holy Communion. The scene was very interesting and impressive and was witnessed by a large congregation. Promptly at half-past 8 o'clock the children marched into the church and down the center isle to seats which had been reserved for them for special use. Each of the girls were clad in robes of spotless white. From their heads depended long white veils upon which rested pretty wreaths of white flowers, and in their hands they held a lighted candle. The boys wore dark suits and on their right arm was tied a white ribbon. They also carried lighted candles. Rev. Father Brennan celebrated Mass and administered Holy Communion to the children and many of the congregation. Miss G. Agullion played the organ while the singing of Mr. Dr. Walliser was sweet and appropriate. After Mass, Father Brennan gave the children instructions as to their future religious duties. The congregation then dispersed.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Children's day at the Methodist Church last Sunday brought out a large crowd. Every seat in the church was filled and all listened with great interest to the remarks of Rev. Mr. Chase of the Congregational Church and also to those of Rev. Mr. Woodward. The singing by the children was excellent and the several recitations by the little girls was also entertaining. The church was tastefully decorated with choice flowers, evergreens and trailing vines. The choir was reenforced by a number of our local singers and therefore the singing was better than usual. The services were brought to a close by prayer and song.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Evening services were held in the Congregational Church. The discourse by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Chase, and the singing by the choir were listened to with marked attention by all present.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, JUNE 18, 1892.

Economical Foreigners.

"The thing with which I return home the most impressed," says an exceptionally intelligent woman who has lived abroad for some time, "is that of the real economy which exists among Europeans. At first we lavish Americans term it parsimony, and sniff at the accounting for candle ends in the household of a British peer or the careful thrift of the German housewife who binds her bed blankets with a deep, loosely caught binding of cheesecloth to preserve the nap that comes off infinitesimally from handling in daily bedmaking, but after awhile we discover that side by side with this rigid avoidance of waste and needless expenditure there are impressive results and generous, handsome outlays.

"They are all skillful, too, in making the most of everything, much more so than we with the Yankee ingenuity of which we boast—it seems inherent, not acquired. At this moment I think the French peasant woman can serve for five sous a better, a more nourishing and appetizing meal than our scientific kitchens can put forth for three times that sum, and this with no disparagement to the latter. As a people we seem to lack the faculty of getting the most out of the least; that is, the maximum of comfort out of the minimum of expenditure, in striking contrast to our transatlantic friends."—Her Point of View in New York Times.

How He Succeeded in Life.

The man with the self satisfied air had stopped to speak to a couple of men on the street, and when he had passed one of the men remarked:

"There's a man who has come up in the world rapidly."

"Is he a brilliant man?" asked the other.

"Well, no; at least no one ever thought so."

"He must be a hard worker then."

"No; he doesn't work any harder than he has to."

"Well, I suppose he has a lot of good hard sense, and that makes him valuable."

"He has never shown any evidences of it."

The second man thought the matter over for a moment and then said:

"Oh, well, some people have a faculty of making others think they are smart men even when they are not."

"He hasn't that to any marked extent. No one considers him a particularly able man."

"What is the secret of his success then?"

"His ability and readiness to say things reflecting on the work of others. His only hope is to convince people that others do poor work."—Chicago Tribune.

Antiquity of Nicknames.

The origin of the word as well as the exact date of appearance of the custom of "nicknaming" is unknown. Such names are as old at least as the most venerable chronicles, for, upon diving into ancient history, we have no trouble at all in proving that Plato was called the "Attic Bee" and Socrates "Old Flat Nose." There isn't the least doubt but that many of our surnames come from nicknames applied to our ancestors, such, for instance, as "Dollarhide," "Oxenrider," "Bright," "Lightfoot," "Walkingshaw," "Redhead," "Longman," "Longfellow," etc.

Julius Cæsar was popularly styled "Baldhead," and even the third Rameses is said to have been known by an Egyptian word which signifies "Limpy." No one has been able to escape the blighting or benign influence of the nickname. Kings, queens, philosophers, divines, statesmen, as well as many other eminent persons, have been made to prosper or suffer by having some appropriate or ridiculous sobriquet added after the lawful bestowal of the "Christian" name.—St. Louis Republic.

Why Leap Year?

To the inquiry why the leap years are so called there appears to be no satisfactory answer. What connection, it may be asked and has been asked, was the year or the added day supposed to have with a leap or with leaping? Were these years regarded as coming with leaps or bounds, as contrasted with the steps or paces of other years? Did days or years leap over something, or were they themselves somehow leaped over? All this seems matter for conjecture, and there is nothing left for us but to fall back on the "Century Dictionary's" statement, "The exact reason of the name is unknown."—Rev. George McArthur in St. Nicholas.

Waterproof Leather.

An Austrian chemist is reported to have solved the problem of waterproofing leather by a cheap and efficient method. He employs a solution of fifteen parts of gelatine and five parts of bichromate of potash dissolved in 1,200 parts of water. Impregnating the leather with this solution causes the albumen to coagulate in the pores.—New York Journal.

Gold in Brazil.

Brazil, which only a century ago was the richest of gold producing countries, has now ceased to be largely productive. The total output of the metal from that part of the world from the end of the Sixteenth century until now is estimated at $700,000,000.—Washington Star.

CUSTOMS FRAUDS.

Some Startling Developments Coming.

ANOTHER CASE IN THE HISTORY OF SMUGGLING.

An Interesting Story Concerning the Appraiser's Office Comes to Light.

That the full extent of the customs frauds perpetrated by well known and heretofore reputable men here is not yet known and that further startling developments will appear, is made evident by the hints and actions of the government agents sent here to unravel the dark combinations made by wealthy merchants and the Custom House employees.

"When the Grand Jury has completed its investigations" said a prominent government official yesterday, "and when the reports made to the treasury department in Washington by Solicitor Hepburn, Superintendent of Special Agents Tingle and Assistant Secretary Crouse are made public there will appear the story of a system of customs frauds which involves more people of respectability and wealth than perhaps any smuggling scheme ever unearthed by the government before. There will then be more names mentioned in connection with these frauds than are identified with them now."

In the course of his persistent investigations about the Custom House an Evening Post reporter yesterday learned some things of interest concerning an old and trusted employee in the appraisers office from which Appraiser Levy was so recently dismissed. This man is T. O. Lewis, who through all the changes of several successive administrations has remained chief clerk of the appraiser's department. The searching investigation of the affairs of this department made by Solicitor Hepburn, left not the slightest reflection on the competence and trustworthiness of Mr. Lewis. Mr. Lewis, it was learned, is a man whose name is known throughout America and in many foreign lands, although his comparatively obscure official position has given him but little local fame. The story of how his fame was acquired is an interesting one. It is based entirely on the story of how his life was saved several years ago. He told it in 1887 as follows:

"Some six months or more ago, I was taken with an attack of something resembling my old complaint. My doctor pronounced it to be Nephritis. It yielded readily to the usual treatment for such cases, and I again resumed the use of Warner's Safe Cure, which I had not touched for several years. I thought at the time it was something remarkable that this attack passed off without the passage of stones, as formerly, although I carefully watched for them. I therefore, came to the conclusion that my doctor's diagnosis was correct, and that the attack was nothing more nor less than a simple inflammation of the kidneys caused by a cold settling there. Some two months later I noticed a slight pain in urinating. This increased until it culminated in inflammation of the prostate gland, and strangury of the neck of the bladder, causing a complete stoppage of the flow of the urine. Two physicians essayed to relieve the bladder by catherization without avail. A third was more successful by distending the urethra, and introducing a very large catheter. The desired result was obtained, and when the instrument was withdrawn, it brought away a stone weighing 53 grs., which proved upon a chemical analysis to be an oxalic of lime. This was followed in the course of a few days by the passage of more than forty stones, varying in size from an ordinary pin's head to that of a pea. Some of these stones were smooth, others, including the largest were rough and jagged. They could hardly have passed the urethra in that condition. I continued the use of Warner's Safe Cure, and a few days afterwards passed at intervals a quantity of black sand. All unpleasant symptoms have now disappeared, and I am quite well."

This account of how he conquered an ailment which has proved fatal to so many, was published wherever the English language is spoken, in connection with many similar testimonials.

Speaking of the matter yesterday, Mr. Lewis said: "When I had found that Warner's Safe Cure had done me more good than the doctors could do," I recommended it to friends and acquaintances afflicted with kidney troubles whenever I had an opportunity. There were so many that I remember but few of the names, but in every case in which I heard of the results the treatment resulted successfully. There were so many of the clerks and laborers about the department who had kidney disease in some stage that I bought several cases of the cure and supplied them at cost."

"What surprised me most was the mass of inquiries which I received from all over the world. They even came from the West Indies, Mexico and Japan. I replied to fifteen or twenty of them saying that my testimonial was reliable in every particular and then I quit troubling myself with them. I remember that I received a letter from one gentleman who was a merchant in Yokohama saying that he had used Warner's Safe Cure through having read my testimonial and that it had cured him of a similar trouble. As far as I am concerned I have never had a recurrence of my affliction since I was cured as related nearly six years ago."—San Francisco Evening Post.

The Origin of the Christmas Tree.

What is the origin of the Christmas tree? This question has been much debated. It has been identified with the cross of Christian tradition and with the Yule log of pagan antiquity. M. de Gubernatis has contended that it is a reminiscence of solar mythology, and other savants have elaborately developed other theories more or less fantastic. Among the most probable, however, is the suggestion of Palus Cassel that it is a Jewish emblem in disguise. Dr. Cassel points out, in the first place, that Hanucah and Christmas occur very closely together in the calendar. He then reminds us that both are feasts of lights, and that the menorah or candlestick used by the Jews on Hanucah is frequently carved with representations of leaves, flowers and fruits, which give it a distant resemblance to a tree.

NAGLE IN COURT.

In the Justice's Court of Santa Rosa Township, Sonoma County, California.

J. W. RAGSDALE, Plaintiff, vs.
F. G. NAGLE, Defendant.

The plaintiff for cause of action against the defendant, alleges: That on the 16th day of November, 1888, said defendant, F. G. Nagle, received from G. W. Call the sum of one hundred (100) dollars, the property of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau; that of said money said defendant, Nagle, returned to said Bureau the sum of $20 only, and retained, and ever since has retained, the balance of said $100, to-wit, $80, for his own use, and that no part of said $80 has ever been paid; that said Bureau assigned said claim to plaintiff.

For a further and separate cause of action plaintiff alleges: That defendant is indebted to plaintiff in the sum of $80 for money had and received from G. W. Call, November 16th, 1888, for the use and benefit of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau, which claim has been assigned to the plaintiff, and that no part of the same has ever been paid.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays for a judgment against defendant for the sum of $80 and costs.
